Fair Labor Standards Act

The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) is the federal law governing hours worked and pay for all non-exempt employees. It is imperative that we are and remain in compliance with this law. To support principals and department heads to this end, the following guidelines must be adhered to:

- FLSA pertains to those employees who are “non-exempt” from the law. Generally, this would refer to all employees except degreed or administrative employees (i.e. teachers, guidance counselors, principals, assistant principals, central office administrators).
- In the case of a dispute involving FLSA, the burden of proof of time worked is solely on the employer. Therefore, accurate records of all time worked by non-exempt employees is an essential requirement of the law.
- To comply with the law, a record must be kept when non-exempt employees begin and end work and when they take breaks, which are on their own time, such as lunch or leave.
- Non-exempt employees are not permitted to work before their regular starting time nor are they permitted to work beyond their normal quitting time. Likewise, they may not work through their scheduled lunch period nor take work home to be finished that they could not finish during their regular workday. It is the school division’s responsibility (administrators/supervisors) to ensure that non-exempt employees do not begin work early, stay late, work through lunch, or take work home. If non-exempt employees work during these periods, they must be compensated, which will directly impact departmental/school budgets.
- Non-exempt employees must be informed of the rules the law imposes on the school division and informed that administrators/supervisors have no choice but to enforce these rules in order to abide by the law. This information will be shared with employees under separate cover so they will have knowledge of what is and is not allowed under this law.

Administrators/supervisors will be held responsible for enforcing this policy to the extent that, if necessary, disciplinary action may be required to ensure compliance on the part of employees. Please contact Mrs. Amanda Schilling, Human Resources Generalist, at 628-3910 ext. 21305, with questions regarding the FLSA.
