Alphabet Soup Research Assignment

FDR’s New Deal focused on the 3 Rs: relief, recovery and reform. In short, relief meant giving people immediate help—money in their pockets or jobs that would do the same. Recovery meant passing legislation that would fix the broken aspects of the US industrial or agricultural economies. Reform meant passing laws that would make it so that an economic downturn, like the Great Depression, would never happen again. Today you will do research on TWO pieces of legislation from FDR’s 1st or 2nd New Deal. For each of the administrations/agencies that you study, please answer the following questions:

1. Title & year enacted into law
2. What area of American life was this legislation trying to remedy?
3. What did this administration/agency do?
4. Would this administration/agency fall under the category of relief, recovery, or reform? Explain.
5. Was this legislation a continuation of the actions or goals of Progressive Era reformers, or was it something new? Explain.
6. After researching and completing the questions, create a thesis statement in response to the following prompt:
   “How revolutionary was the New Deal? Evaluate the significant changes that it brought and determine how different the nation became because of it.”
