

AT-HOME LEARNING

ONLINE WEBINAR

for parents of K-12 students

Has the current school closure created new challenges at home for you and your learners? Join experts from the William & Mary School of Education for an informative and interactive conversation designed to help you support your students at home.

A panel of six faculty members will present tips and resources:

- MATH | Gladys Krause, Assistant Professor of Math Education
- READING | Kristin Conradi Smith, Associate Professor of Literacy Education
- CREATIVITY & SCREENTIME | Lindy Johnson, Assistant Professor of English Education
- SCIENCE & PROBLEM-SOLVING | Meredith Kier, Associate Professor of STEM Education
- SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL WELL-BEING | Janise Parker, Assistant Professor of School Psychology
- SUPPORTING STUDENTS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS | Debbie Grosser, Director of T/TAC
- Moderated by Kelley Clark, Director of Teacher Education; Amy Colley, Executive Director of the School-University Resource Network; and April Lawrence, Associate Director of eLearning

An open Q&A will follow. Bring your questions!

Friday, April 3 at noon ET tinyurl.com/wmlearningathome

William & Mary
School of Education